1. In August 1951, on orders from the Revolutionary Military Council, the 2 Field Army selected 60,000 troops from the 3, 4 and 5 Army Groups and regrouped them into an Aid Korea Volunteer Army. Each army and each division of the army groups was instructed to conduct an Anti-American Aid Korea campaign during which they would accept volunteers for Korea. The number of men in each unit who volunteered for this service was not to exceed one-third of the entire unit strength.
2. After the army was organized, the troops were given two months of training and organized into eight divisions. The regrouping was completed in mid-October and the troops left in groups for Manchuria in early November. Most were concentrated at Chungking to embark on boats for Hankow. Units from the 5 Army Group traveled by highway to Hengyang, where they boarded trains for Manchuria via Hankow.
3. Generally, the units sent to Korea will retain their original designations.
